

Stephanie Colburn, BSN, RN, has been working with Adolescent Medicine at Children's Mercy Hospital in Kansas City for 10 years. In addition to working in the clinic, she has presented at numerous community events outside of the clinic setting. She is passionate about working with youth and advocating for providing the highest patient-centered care. She is a member of the MFHC Training Advisory Committee and shared her great insight in preparing the content for this conference.

Jennifer Carter Dochler, MSW, has worked in the movement to end rape and abuse since 1997. Her experience in Texas and Missouri includes advocating with victims of domestic and sexual violence; research; policy; community organizing and education; and program development. Jennifer joined the Missouri Coalition Against Domestic and Sexual Violence staff in 2003 as a Program Development Specialist and became the Public Policy Director in 2016. Since 2008, she has served as an adjunct faculty at the University of Missouri School of Social Work.

Dr. Jennifer Exo is an assistant professor of Pediatrics in the Division of Adolescent Medicine at Children's Mercy Hospital in Kansas City. She works in the Teen Clinic where she sees patients aged 12-21 years and supervises residents and medical students. She is also the medical director of the Teen Clinic's Title X program.

Elizabeth Fuchs, MSW, is the Manager of Public Policy with PROMO Missouri. She started in the spring of 2016 with over 15 years of experience working in St. Louis' LGBTQQIAA community. Born and raised in the beautiful city of St. Louis, Elizabeth obtained both her Bachelor's and Master's Degrees in Social Work from the University of Missouri St. Louis (UMSL) with a graduate certificate in Nonprofit Management and Leadership. While a student, Elizabeth interned with then, SAGE Metro St. Louis, now, SAGE of PROMO Fund, and upon graduation began employment at St. Louis Effort for AIDS (EFA). At EFA, Elizabeth worked closely with local organizations and state officials to examine how questions about gender are being asked at the state in relationship to the lack of HIV prevalence data for people who are living with HIV and identify as transgender. Her research is informing best practices for asking a two-part gender question, which she presented at the first Transgender Spectrum Conference in St. Louis and the 27th Annual HIV/AIDS and Social Work conference in New Orleans. Elizabeth's is a passionate social justice practitioner, and proud to be in this role exploring the intersectionalities in life that effect our community members...all of us.

Elizabeth Jones, MPA, is a Director of Service Delivery Improvement at National Family Planning & Reproductive Health Association (NFPRHA) in Washington, DC. In this role, Ms. Jones provides capacity-building support on quality improvement to NFPRHA's membership, which includes health departments, freestanding family planning agencies, Planned Parenthoods, hospitals, and Federally Qualified Health Centers. She also serves as a representative on national work groups convened to establish and promote clinical quality measures related to reproductive and perinatal health. Prior to working at NFPRHA, Ms. Jones was the Director of Health Systems Improvement and a Senior Technical Advisor at Cicitelli Associates, Inc. (CAI), where she oversaw the New York State Center of Excellence for Family Planning and Reproductive Health Services and other state- and national-level capacity-building projects working with safety net providers. Ms. Jones also worked at the New York City Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, the nation's oldest and largest local health department, where she oversaw special projects aimed at increasing access to reproductive health services. Elizabeth holds her Masters degree in Health Policy and Management from New York University, and her BA from Claremont McKenna College.

Amanda Kimber, MPA, CPC, is a Director of Service Delivery Improvement at the National Family Planning & Reproductive Health Association (NFPRHA) in Washington, DC. Amanda's work at NFPRHA supports agencies that provide publicly funded family planning services through identifying and disseminating business best practices. Prior to joining NFPRHA, Amanda worked at Planned Parenthood of the Heartland in Des Moines, Iowa, first as a community organizer and then as a lobbyist and policy analyst. Amanda began her professional career as a legislative aide for Iowa State Senator Amanda Ragan. Amanda holds a Masters of Public Administration from Drake University and received her undergraduate education in Political Science from the University of Iowa. She is also a certified professional medical coder and member of the American Academy of Professional Coders.

Christina Meneses, MSW, is the Community Education Supervisor at the YWCA Women's Resource Center. Over the last 17 years, she has spoken to tens of thousands of students, professionals, and community members on issues related to child sexual abuse, sexual harassment, rape, healthy relationships, and the prevention of sexual violence. She currently manages the YWCA Sexual Health and Disability Educations (SHADE) program, which provides sexuality education to individuals with disabilities as a component of preventing sexual abuse against this population. She also works with NCCI St. Louis, an anti-bias organization, and is an adjunct professor at the Brown School of Social Work at Washington University in St. Louis.

Dr. Mistie Mills has been practicing OB/GYN at the University of Missouri since 2005. Dr. Mills attended medical school at UMKC's 6-year program. She attended the University of Missouri in Columbia for residency training. Dr. Mills then joined on as faculty in 2005. She is currently an Associate Professor in the OB/GYN Department and is the OB/GYN Clerkship Director for the medical students. Dr. Mills' daily activities involve seeing patients in the inpatient and outpatient setting and training medical residents and students. Her clinical interests are minimally invasive gynecologic surgery and obstetric care. Dr. Mills is also the current American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologist Missouri Section Treasurer and has held several leadership roles within the organization. Dr. Mills also served on the national committee for patient safety and quality improvement for ACOG. She helped to develop checklists for safe cesarean delivery and elimination of elective delivery prior to 39 weeks. Dr. Mills currently serves on the Missouri Perinatal Task Force that was appointed by the Governor.